WORDS OF WELCOME

Dear ERNOP friends,

The CBS Center for Civil Society Studies is very pleased to be hosting the 8th international ERNOP conference, regarding it as a great opportunity to share research based news and views on subjects of great importance in an era of hybridity and alternative forms of organizing.

This year, we also celebrate the centenary Copenhagen Business School, founded in 1917 as a private institution, Handelshøjskolen. Today, CBS is predominantly run on public money as an integrated part of the Danish university system. In the academic year of 2017 CBS offer classes at BA- and MA-level to more than 22.000 students – including 4.000 international students, and 160 Ph.-D.-students.

In this respect, CBS is a rather unusual business university that focuses on innovative and entrepreneurial business models, sustainable organizational forms and economic practices within the perspective of responsible management and leadership. The conference venue, Dalgas Have, was designed in 1988 by Henning Larsen Architects (who has also designed the opera house situated on the waterfront of Copenhagen harbor). In this user-friendly context, we hope that the conference participants will find inspiration for knowledge sharing and engaging debate.

I am looking forward to the next days of inspiration and interaction. If you have questions and suggestions for adjustments of the events, do not hesitate to contact me and my colleagues from the CBS Center for Civil Society Studies.

Yours sincerely,

Anker Brink Lund

Dear conference attendees,

Welcome to Copenhagen! We, as ERNOP Board, are glad to be hosted by the Center for Civil Society Studies at Copenhagen Business School. A business school that is celebrating its 100 years anniversary. Congratulations! We would like particularly to thank Anker Brink Lund and his team for their efforts to bring ERNOP to Denmark.

This conference highlights philanthropy in an era of hybridity and new forms of organizing. Again, our conference is hosted at a business school. And indeed, philanthropy and business seem to form hybrid couples more frequently. Thinking about philanthropy as a way of investing, we can say that this not really surprising. All giving in fact means “investing”. While purely commercial enterprises invest for financial profit – philanthropic investments are aimed to benefit others; people, projects or the society at large.

As ERNOP, we have presented our “Business card” ‘Giving in Europe’ in Brussels. Handing over the first copy to Mr. Herman van Rompuy (former president of the European Council) symbolized that philanthropy research is on the European agenda for sure. But, above all, Giving in Europe symbolizes the commitment of our network to improve our understanding of (European) philanthropy. In the coming days, CBS assembles us again to show our commitment to highlight the positive nature of mankind in a period of daily breaking news about terror-attacks and war.

By saying this, I wish you all an inspirational and hope-bringing conference.

Theo Schuyt
ERNOP president

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

PROF. DR. HELMUT ANHEIER

Hertie School of Governance
– Berlin (Germany)
Center for Social Investment
– Heidelberg (Germany)

Professor of Sociology Helmut K. Anheier is President and Dean at the Hertie School of Governance (Germany). He also holds a chair of sociology at Heidelberg University and serves as Academic Director of the Centre for Social Investment. As an academic, Helmut Anheier provided us with one of the international standards for classifying non-profit goals. But, what's more, his contribution to understanding the role of philanthropy and (European) foundations gave valuable insights to the academic community.

In his key-note speech, Helmut Anheier will address the topic of differences in global philanthropy. Is there such a thing as European philanthropy? What makes a foundation a European one? If we can say that European philanthropy exists, how does it differ from other philanthropy traditions across the globe? And what are the issues regarding the performance of philanthropic foundations in the future?

PROF. DR. FLEMMING BESENBACHER

Carlsberg Foundation
– Copenhagen (Denmark)

Flemming Besenbacher is an outstanding academic, Chairman of the board of the Carlsberg Foundation and Chairman of the Supervisory board of Carlsberg A/S (Denmark). The Carlsberg Foundation is one of the world's oldest commercial foundations. Next to being the principal shareholder of the world's third largest brewery, it also supports visionary and innovative international basic research within the natural sciences, social sciences and humanities.

Flemming Besenbacher will address the audience by elaborating on the place foundation owned companies take in the spectrum of philanthropic organizations. Flemming Besenbacher will address the audience by elaborating on the unique Danish model of industrial foundations and the potential of such a model for the future.

PROF. DR. SARAH SMITH

University of Bristol
– Bristol (United Kingdom)

Sarah Smith is Professor of Economics at the University of Bristol (United Kingdom). Her research interests are in applied micro – specifically consumer behaviour and public economics and her main focus is the economics of not-for-profit organisations. She has been working with a number of charity organisations to understand what motivates individuals to give and how donations respond to different (economic and non-economic) incentives. Recently, she carried out work on behavioural change related to bequest giving and the effect of larger donations on subsequent pledges. She also carried out excellent work on long-term trends in giving.

At the ERNOP conference, Sarah Smith will speak about peer-to-peer (P2P) fundraising. P2P has been revolutionised by online platforms and the growth of mass fundraising events. A central theme in P2P fundraising is the focus on social interactions. Sarah will relate this to fundraising by organizing mass events.

ABOUT THE EUROPEAN RESEARCH NETWORK ON PHILANTHROPY

The European Research Network on Philanthropy (ERNOP) is an association that was founded in January 2008 by collaborating philanthropy researchers in Europe. Our mission is to advance, coordinate and promote excellence in philanthropic research in Europe. We aim to be an international and interdisciplinary network open to all researchers studying philanthropy. To date, around 200 members from more than 25 (mostly) European countries have joined ERNOP. ERNOP and its members work closely with other academic research networks that address related fields such as ISTR, ARNOVA and EMES. Also, ERNOP has developed a good relationship with European networks of philanthropy professionals such as DAFNE, EFC, EVPA and EFA.

ERNOP members study philanthropy, which is understood as private, mainly voluntary, contributions to public causes. However, we acknowledge that philanthropy has different meanings across Europe because of the large variations in the historical, social and legal background of philanthropy. ERNOP perceives all these different perspectives as being a strength, and aims to include them all in the study of philanthropy. ERNOP members actively publish their research in a wide range of mono- and interdisciplinary scientific journals, from economic journals to marketing, social policy and historical journals. We are proud of the fact that ERNOP members are editors of the four main specialised philanthropy journals (NVSQ, Voluntas, IJNVSM and VSR).

In order to further advance philanthropic research in Europe, ERNOP members from different countries and scientific disciplines have collaborated on numerous research projects and grant proposals, each bringing their own unique qualities and perspectives to the projects. New members are cordially invited to join collaborative proposals.

Since its inception in 2008, ERNOP has organised a biennial conference in a European city. At this conference, researchers studying philanthropy present their state-of-art research, exchange ideas and meet colleagues. The conference aims to contribute to the creation of a European philanthropy researcher identity. ERNOP is proud that this conference is considered to be the leading conference on European philanthropy research.

ERNOP aims to represent the study of philanthropy in Europe and to influence policy-making at a national and European level. Knowledge is of utmost importance for policy-making and this is no different for philanthropy. As there is no structural or comparable information about philanthropy between European countries, ERNOP aims to put philanthropy research on the philanthropy agenda of national and European policymakers.

ABOUT THE CENTER FOR CIVIL SOCIETY STUDIES AT COPENHAGEN BUSINESS SCHOOL

Social science has much to offer when it comes to knowledge of state and market, but not nearly as much when it comes to knowledge of civil society where the mass media, philanthropy, and voluntary associations play defining roles. Since the establishment of the Center for Civil Society Studies at Copenhagen Business School in 2013, a team of researchers educated in sociology, history, philosophy, and political science has attempted to mitigate the lack of research-based knowledge.

The Center is coordinated by professor Anker Brink Lund, and financed by a unique combination of public and private research funding, organized as public private partnerships, including Realdania, TrygFonden, and Tuborgfondet.

The goal of the research center is to foster original contributions to civil society studies in line with the leading international trends in this interdisciplinary research field. Most of the work is conducted from a comparative research perspective taking Danish cases as the starting point and collating and contrasting with matching institutional developments, primarily from Continental Europe.

In so doing, the Center knowingly challenges dogma related to taken-for-granted norms in Denmark by the general public. Consequently, the Center not only published in international journals (primarily in English), but also disseminate results more broadly by outreach to stakeholders (in Danish) via blogs, press, radio, and television.

CBS Center for Civil Society Studies has also been a participating partner in the EU 7th framework project ITSSOIN – Impact of the Third Sector as Social Innovation – studying socio-economic development in nine European countries. Among the deliverables were Media Framing of Third Sector Activities in Europe (2015), and Environmental Sustainability and Consumer Protection in Finance (2016).

Currently, CBS Center for Civil Society Studies is working in three different areas of study: The project Foundations in Europe focus on public benefit input, output, and impact. The team working on Civil Society in the Shadow of the State investigates to what extend non-profits have contributed to a development of specific democratic traditions around the world. The Making of Well-Being assesses the interplay between social economy and quality of life – challenging the Danish dogma of being the happiest people in the world.

MORE INFORMATION

More information about this work in progress can be had by consulting the posters placed at Dalgas Have, originating from the pre-conference on The Societal Significance of European Foundations, hosted by Carlsbergfondet.
