WORDS OF WELCOME

On behalf of the Board of the European Research Network on Philanthropy we welcome you in Basel at the 9th international conference of ERNOP. We are grateful to be hosted by the University of Basel. We for sure will enjoy their hospitality and will experience the architectonic beauty of Basel and the richness of its museums. Particularly we would like to thank Georg von Schnurbein and his team for their efforts to bring ERNOP to Switzerland.

More and more wealthy people and companies get involved in philanthropy. However, philanthropy has not to be narrowed down to the giving pledges of the happy few. Indeed, philanthropy is a global phenomenon. Philanthropy is inextricably linked to the different cultures of societies and, depending on the stage and nature of the social development of a particular country, it takes different, distinctive expressions and organizational forms.

We are therefore delighted that our keynote speakers Rob Reich and Pamala Wiepking address the two sides of the coin: 'philanthrocapitalism' as well as the 'universalistic feature of philanthropy'.

We are confident that this conference will contribute to the mutual understanding of philanthropy and civic commitment. This would not have been possible without the support of the Gebert Rüf Foundation, the Max Geldner Foundation and Transnational Giving Europe and I would like to acknowledge them here.

Theo Schuyt ERNOP president

Welcome to Basel, the Swiss capital of foundations! With over 45 foundations per 10'000 inhabitants, Basel is globally one of the cities with the highest density of foundations. This is a result of the long tradition of philanthropy in Basel. Early examples are the University, a foundation of 1460, early private art collections in the 17th century, and the Christoph Merian Stiftung of 1886, that until today serves for the alleviates distress and promotes well-being in Basel. Today, Basel is known for extraordinary art collections such as the Fondation Beyeler, the Tinguely Museum and the Schaulager. But there is much more to philanthropy than just culture and arts. Several social and housing institutions or hospitals are organized as nonprofit organizations supplementing state services. Additionally, a vital scene of new and innovative nonprofit organizations emerged in the last decades supporting ideas of collectivism, circular economy and social innovation.

Altogether, Basel is a great place to discuss the future role of philanthropy. How can philanthropic resources serve best for society? Is philanthropy's reputation at risk without answers to inequalities and injustice? What are the achievements of and in philanthropy after two decades of enormous growth?

I look forward to new insights and vivid debates, not only for the days of the conference, but also with consequences for philanthropy in Basel and any other place in the world.

Georg von Schurbein CEPS

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Lynda Mansson

Lynda joined MAVA as Director General in August 2010. She is responsible for implementing the strategy of the foundation and leading the secretariat team. Since joining the foundation, Lynda has overseen a complete reshaping of MAVA. She is deeply interested in sustainability issues and led the foundation to incorporate a new programme to work on sustainable economy. She also ensures the impact of the foundation's investments, and is committed to increasing its level of transparency and accountability.

Before joining the foundation, Lynda spent 13 years in various management roles with WWF International in Switzerland. She began her career as a San Francisco stockbroker and then earned an MBA from the Walter A. Haas School of Business at the University of California, Berkeley.

Lynda serves on the Board of the Global Footprint Network. She also acts as President of the Board of Partners for a New Economy and the Prespa Ohrid Nature Trust (PONT).

The academic interest in charitable foundations recently gained more attention in literature, albeit reactive following a global rise of philanthropy and the strong growth of foundations in many countries. However, the idea of leveraging corporate resources to form a charitable foundation (i.e. a corporate foundation) has been contested until today and only recently, corporate philanthropy became more visible.

In our panel we will present the key findings of the state of the art in research. The panel is composed of the four editors of the newly published Research Handbook on Corporate Foundations. The presentation will cover the main findings of the book, combining the knowledge of more than 20 researcher from over 10 different countries on the subject of corporate foundations. Additionally we will present avenues for future research and hope to engage in a lively discussion with fellow researchers on the achievements and downsides of corporate foundations.

ABOUT THE EUROPEAN RESEARCH NETWORK ON PHILANTHROPY

The European Research Network on Philanthropy (ERNOP) is an association that was founded in January 2008 by collaborating philanthropy researchers in Europe. Our mission is to advance, coordinate and promote excellence in philanthropic research in Europe. We aim to be an international and interdisciplinary network open to all researchers studying philanthropy. To date, around 250 members from almost 30 (mostly) European countries have joined ERNOP. ERNOP and its members work closely with other academic research networks that address related fields such as ISTR, ARNOVA and EMES. Also, ERNOP has developed a good relationship with European networks of philanthropy professionals such as DAFNE, EFC, EVPA and EFA.

ERNOP members study philanthropy, which is understood as private, mainly voluntary, contributions to public causes. However, we acknowledge that philanthropy has different meanings across Europe because of the large variations in the historical, social and legal background of philanthropy. ERNOP perceives all these different perspectives as being a strength, and aims to include them all in the study of philanthropy. ERNOP members actively publish their research in a wide range of mono- and interdisciplinary scientific journals, from economic journals to marketing, social policy and historical journals. We are proud of the fact that ERNOP members are editors of the four main specialised philanthropy journals (NVSQ, Voluntas, IJNVSM and VSR).

In order to further advance philanthropic research in Europe, ERNOP members from different countries and scientific disciplines have collaborated on numerous research projects and grant proposals, each bringing their own unique qualities and perspectives to the projects. New members are cordially invited to join collaborative proposals.

Since its inception in 2008, ERNOP has organised a biennial conference in a European city. At this conference, researchers studying philanthropy present their state-of-art research, exchange ideas and meet colleagues. The conference aims to contribute to the creation of a European philanthropy researcher identity. ERNOP is proud that this conference is considered to be the leading conference on European philanthropy research. ERNOP aims to represent the study of philanthropy in Europe and to influence policy-making at a national and European level. Knowledge is of utmost importance for policy-making and this is no different for philanthropy. As there is no structural or comparable information about philanthropy between European countries, ERNOP aims to put philanthropy research on the philanthropy agenda of national and European policymakers. More information More information about ERNOP, its aims, research projects, members and membership can be found on ERNOP's website, www.ernop.eu.

ABOUT THE CENTER FOR PHILANTHROPY STUDIES (CEPS)

The Center for Philanthropy Studies (CEPS) of the University of Basel is an interdisciplinary research and executive education institute, specialized on the non-profit sector and dealing with the multifaceted topic of philanthropy. The institute was established in 2008 through an initiative by SwissFoundations, the Association of Swiss Grantmaking Foundations.

The aim of the CEPS is to improve both the scientific foundation of and the knowledge about philanthropy. The research focus of the Center is situated around the different aspects of philanthropy including volunteering, donating, and nonprofit management. The center publishes regularly data on the development of the Swiss foundation sector and is partner for the Swiss Foundation Code, a comprehensive governance code for grantmaking foundations. Furthermore, the CEPS provides a direct benefit for foundations and other non-profit organizations through executive education and coaching.

In 2019, CEPS presented its first Massive Open Online Course (MOOC) on 'Entrepreneurship in Nonprofits'. Additionally, the 'Handbook on Corporate Foundations' will be published at Springer Nature, a collaboration with the Erasmus University of Rotterdam.
